FOOD & DRINK

Overlooking the Texas Sculpture Walk, Ellie's Restaurant & Lounge is named after developer Craig Hall's late mother and fuses her dedication to art and authenticity into an elevated dining experience. Ellie's Restaurant & Lounge partners with producers who share the restaurant's commitment to locally sourced, sustainable ingredients, creating dishes that are elegant yet informal.

Ellie's Restaurant & Lounge offers breakfast, lunch and dinner as well as brunch on the weekends. Alongside the delectable dining menus is an impressive beverage program featuring premium cocktails well as an extensive wine list featuring some of the best varietals from around the world.

Designed by award-winning interior design firm Bentel & Bentel, Ellie's Restaurant & Lounge features warm, walnut tones contrasted with cool marble tabletops and accents. The dining and lounge areas are a gallery in their own right, with seven pieces of commissioned artwork by Spencer Finch, Alicia Eggert, Kristin Baker, Cerith Wyn Evans, Carrie Mae Weems and several others. The expansive Ellie's Terrace features views of downtown Dallas and the Texas Sculpture Walk with the backdrop of a striking mosaic by James Welling.

ART

With a passion for the arts woven into the DNA of the property, HALL Arts Hotel offers a diverse collection of impactful, thought-provoking works of art that celebrate established and emerging talents. The property collaborated with former chief curator of the U.S. Department of State's 'Arts in Embassies' Program Virginia Shore to curate a collection of specially commissioned pieces for the hotel's common areas, suites and event and meeting spaces.

Highlights in the collection include a piece at the hotel entrance by Alison Watt, a contemporary Scottish painter known for her realistic depiction of drapery and figures; Spencer Finch's "Asteroid," an ethereal light installation hanging overhead in the dining room of Ellie's Restaurant & Lounge that visualizes Finch's experience of natural phenomena; Lava Thomas' "Resistance Reverb: Movements 1 & 2" in the lobby's entryway, a nod to the historical use of tambourines by protestors and advocates during times of activism and, through both the color and instrument, depict the Women's Marches in 2017; and works by Antonius-Tin Bui, a queer, gender-nonbinary, Vietnamese-American artist based in Houston whose work explores the topics of intergenerational trauma, self-identification and how race relations affect culture.

The guest rooms and hallways feature local photographs that showcase vibrant scenes of the Dallas Arts District, compiled by longtime art advocate and HALL Group curator Patricia Meadows following the conclusion of HALL Group's and the Dallas Arts District's 'Through the Lens' photography competition. The images were selected and compiled into a bespoke coffee table book titled "Through the Lens: Dallas Arts District," from which all sales proceeds are donated to the Dallas Arts District Foundation's grants fund, which provides grants to local arts organizations throughout the district. Each guest room features the book, acquainting guests with the surrounding neighborhood, and is available for purchase at the hotel.
